

ALAN TURING

1912 - 1954

British Codebreaker

During World War II, Alan Turing developed a machine called the 'Bombe', which allowed the British to understand the messages being sent by the German military.

go.pearson.com/mathsposters