

Career Studio

for School

Scalable. Supported.
Student-centered.

Career readiness is most effective when the journey feels connected, not pieced together.

Pearson Career Ready, Career Studio for School is a connected career readiness platform designed to help students discover their strengths, explore future opportunities, and build personalized pathways aligned to their goals.

Through research-based assessments, career and interest exploration, and individualized planning, Career Studio for School brings the essential elements of career readiness into one seamless experience, helping students explore what's possible, prepare for what's next, and take meaningful steps toward their future.

Everything needed to advance career readiness

Create connected career readiness

Help students discover their strengths, interests, and abilities through research-based assessments that provide personalized insights and career recommendations.

Personalized career exploration

Enable students to explore 500+ careers, receive personalized career matches, and discover pathways aligned to their goals.

Individualized career study pathway

Develop personalized career plans that connect pathways of study to progressive coursework, industry recognized certifications, and postsecondary opportunities.

Turn student data into strategic action

Access a unified reporting dashboard that provides visibility across Certiport, eDynamic Learning, and other Pearson Career Ready solutions, enabling institutions and districts to measure outcomes, performance, and impact.

Partner with Pearson to support your learners, institutions, and district

- Replace disconnected tools with one integrated, easy-to-implement platform
- Support a connected career readiness journey from middle through high school
- Expand access to high-quality career readiness for rural and underserved communities
- Support Perkins V and College & Career Readiness (CCR) accountability goals
- Streamline reporting for educators, administrators, and district leaders
- Gain actionable insights to inform planning, pathway development, and resource allocation
- Deliver measurable outcomes for students, schools, and districts

Let's prepare every student for what comes next.

Talk to your Pearson representative to learn how Career Studio for School can support your career readiness initiatives.