One of the Pearson products that has impacted my learning the most has been MyLab, as I use it in my economics course for all homework assignments and textbooks. It has been super helpful in helping me solve each individual problem, as well as getting help on the homework and reinforce everything that we learned in the textbook.

One thing that I love about Pearson products that I haven't seen with other materials that I've engaged with is this ability to really see the reader. There are a lot of options for the student to personalize their Pearson Plus materials while also giving the instructor tools on how they can best serve the students with this platform.
