

what if planning your future felt like playing your favorite game role-playing games are everywhere taking Pop Culture by storm and capturing imaginations at their heart building strategic characters players love choosing roles assigning skill points and diving into Epic
Adventures now imagine students leveling up their career prep in the same way career exploration becomes a quest welcome to the adventure the game master guides players through the experience as they share their preferences earn stats for their character and unlock paths to their future ah personal lore let's bulk up your character stats every choice reveals new insights about their strengths and passions we turn that data into tailored career matches this isn't just career assessment it's an adventure an exciting metaphor for why career planning matters gamers know the secret to Victory is a strategic character with Pearson's approach students can design their future like they design their favorite games and start winning in real life
