TRAINING (FOR ADMINISTRATORS)

Test of Everyday Attention (Occupational Assessment)

Enable confident administration of attention assessments for safety-critical roles

In safety-critical environments, attention is more than a workplace skill. It is essential to reducing errors, supporting performance, and helping organizations make informed talent decisions.

The Test of Everyday Attention (Occupational Assessment) administrator training equips practitioners with the knowledge needed to confidently administer one of the most widely recognized assessments of workplace attention. Developed around real-world tasks and familiar materials, this training helps measure the attentional abilities that are critical to success in high-responsibility roles.

Designed for occupational assessment professionals, our training provides the foundation to administer the Test of Everyday Attention (Occupational Assessment) consistently, accurately, and effectively as part of your talent sourcing strategy.
