WHEN'S MY FLIGHT?

You are at an airport in New York. A friend is flying to Rome and you are there to see your friend off. It is two hours before your friend's flight departs. Read the information to complete the table below. Then answer the question.

The first flight of the day, Flight 305, leaves New York at exactly seven o'clock in the morning. It arrives one hour later. The first and last flights go to the same destination. Flight 69 departs at a quarter past seven. The flight to San Francisco arrives at 11:25 a.m. The passengers travelling to Rome arrive at ten after ten at night. Their arrival time is ten minutes earlier than their departure time. The third flight is Flight 2489. The next flight departs a half hour after Flight 2489 at 12:30 in the afternoon. Flight 2489 arrives in Osaka at half past one the same day. The last flight departs at a quarter to eleven and arrives at a quarter after twelve the following morning. Flight 79 goes to San Francisco. The second flight is the flight to Seoul; it arrives at a quarter to nine in the following morning. Flights 69, 2489 and 95 are international flights. People on Flight 297 always complain that it arrives so late at night.
