

BJ Zamora

Instructor

Humanities Department

Cleveland Community College, Shelby, NC

What is the biggest benefit of using Pearson Writer?

The biggest benefit has been students' engagement in their own writing processes. For the first time, students are eager to consider entire projects as their responsibility instead of only doing such projects one individual step at a time. The ease of access to Pearson Writer engages students in ways that more traditional approaches to self-learning do not. I have observed my students actually using Pearson Writer outside of class to verify information and to remind themselves of other assignments.

What are the two most compelling features of Pearson Writer?

Writing Review and Cite a Source

How have you integrated Pearson Writer into your course?

I required all students in Freshman Composition to submit their essay drafts to Write Review before submitting those drafts for my review. I have created assignments requiring them to use it both for research and for essay reviews.

What did your students like the most about Pearson Writer?

They love the help with MLA bibliographies and they absolutely love the Writing Review. Many have commented on how much more critical they have become about their essays because of Pearson Writer's help.

What students at Cleveland Community College had to say about Pearson Writer:

"By outlining correct or incorrect parts of my paper, Pearson Writer showed me what I could do to strengthen my essays and improve my grade."

"It helped me clean up my writing and helped me find good sources of information quickly."

"Pearson Writer helped me attain higher scores on my papers because it caught my mistakes and helped me fix them properly."

Learn more about Pearson Writer at www.pearsonhighered.com/writer