💡 TO IMPROVE, A CANDIDATE AT THIS LEVEL SHOULD:

- Actively listen to extended speech of varying styles (formal speeches, academic talks, news items, television debates, etc.) on an increasing range of topics, including abstract and complex topics within and outside of your interests and/or field.
- Practice broadening your lexical repertoire (including your range of idiomatic and colloquial expressions).
- Practice giving clear, detailed descriptions of complex subjects.
- Practice using appropriate stress and intonation to convey shades of meaning precisely.
- Practice arguing your position (formal or informal), responding to questions and comments and answering lines of counterargument.
- Practice using language extensively for social purposes, including emotional, allusive, and joking usage.
- Practice expressing yourself fluently in spontaneous conversations and goal-directed contexts.
- Practice prefacing your remarks using discourse functions when attempting to get the floor, or to gain time and keep the floor while thinking.
- Practice relating your contribution to those of other speakers using functional phrases such as, "I agree with X..." and "X has a good point but..."
- Practice using appropriate phrases (e.g., "What I meant was...", "Let me put it another way...", etc.) to continue the flow of speech when you encounter a difficulty and need to reformulate what you want to say.
- Practice summarizing long, demanding texts.
- Practice responding quickly and appropriately to interjections, redirections, and/or questions.
