

International students and skilled migrants are powering Australia's prosperity

The Australian Dream is being fuelled by the diverse spectrum of ambitious migrants who come to work and study in Australia.

The global competition for international students and skilled migrants is increasingly fierce, with nations vying to attract the best and brightest to enhance their economic and cultural vitality.

As one of the most successful multicultural nations in the world, Australia is winning the race. International students and skilled workers want to come to Australia, and PTE is helping them do it.

A new study of PTE test-takers demonstrates how integral international students and skilled migrants are to Australia's economy, and to society as a whole.
