Dear Santa,

For Christmas this year, I would be very grateful for one or more of the following things because I have been really good and I have worked very hard.

I would like:

* 30 iPads. I’ve been very good this year, I promise.

* an extra TA because the lovely one I’ve got is getting all worn out

* Rosie B to remember her Christmas play lines (just once will do)

* some new books for our library

* the smell of sick that's been lingering in my classroom since September to be gone forever, never to return

* a new laminator

* loads and loads of Blu-tac and glue sticks

* a big box of paper clips and a lock box to keep them in

* Joe Smith’s mum to stop feeding him raw broccoli, or whatever it is that makes him release vast quantities of methane into my classroom with such alarming frequency

* a box (or three) of mint Matchmakers
* one of those Time-Turner things Hermione has in Harry Potter, or if that's not possible, a subscription to one of Pearson’s fantastic, time-saving programmes

* all my children to come back in the new year raving about the books they got for Christmas

* you know those industrial-style pencil sharpeners with the turny handles that used to be bolted onto teachers’ desks in the 1980s? One of those please

* a foot spa and giant vat of Radox

* one of those Brita water bottles with the filter in the top

* a big Christmas card holder so I can properly display all the lovely cards I get from my wonderful pupils

* a magic school jumper finder

* all my children to come into school every day with a good breakfast inside them

* a peaceful 2016.

Pretty please and thank you.

Love from
Mrs T. Eacher
