1. Bug Club Bunny Bookmark

Found a good story? Help yourself find where you last finished reading with your very own Bug Club Bunny bookmark. You can colour it in however you like and then ask a grown-up to help you cut it out and fold it along the dotted line.

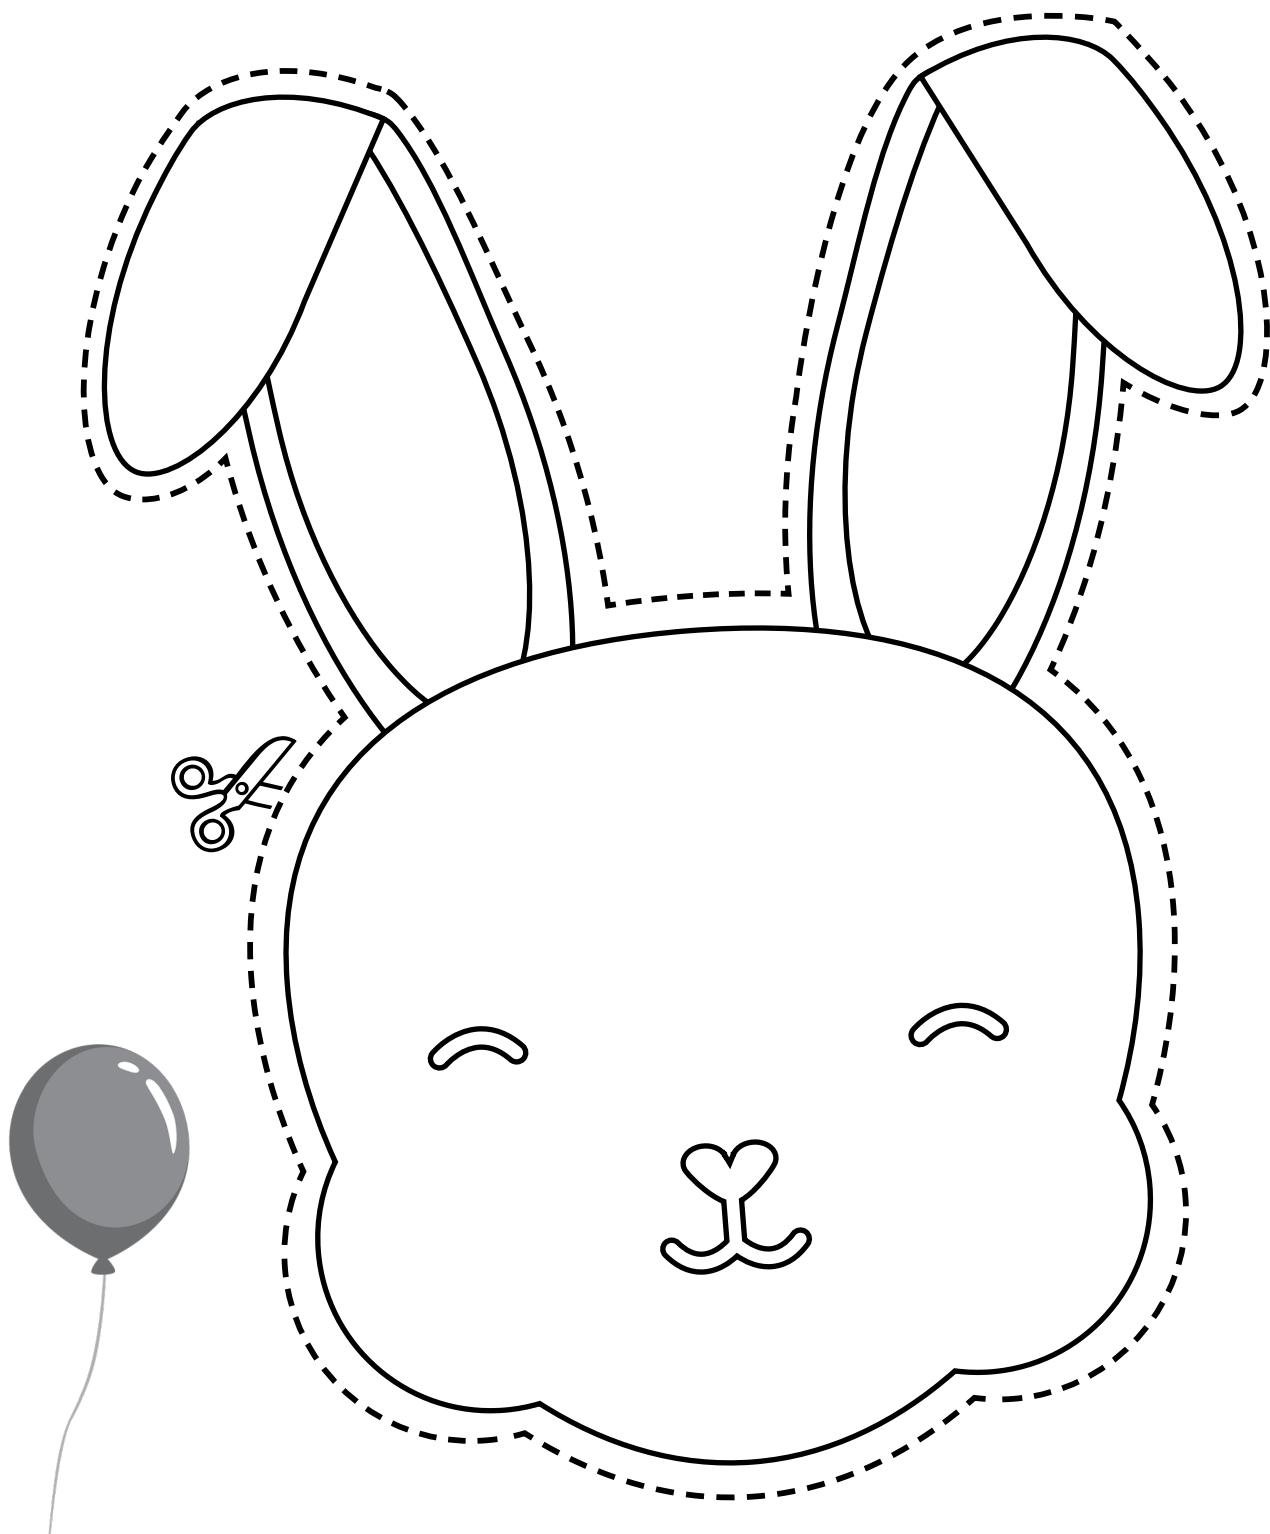

2. Be Your Own Bunny!

Using crayons or colouring pencils, this mask is yours to decorate however you like. When you're finished, ask a grown-up to help you cut around the dotted lines and attach a piece of elastic or string so that you can wear it on your face. The Easter fun has begun!

Want to try life as a rabbit? Then look at what we have 'ear...

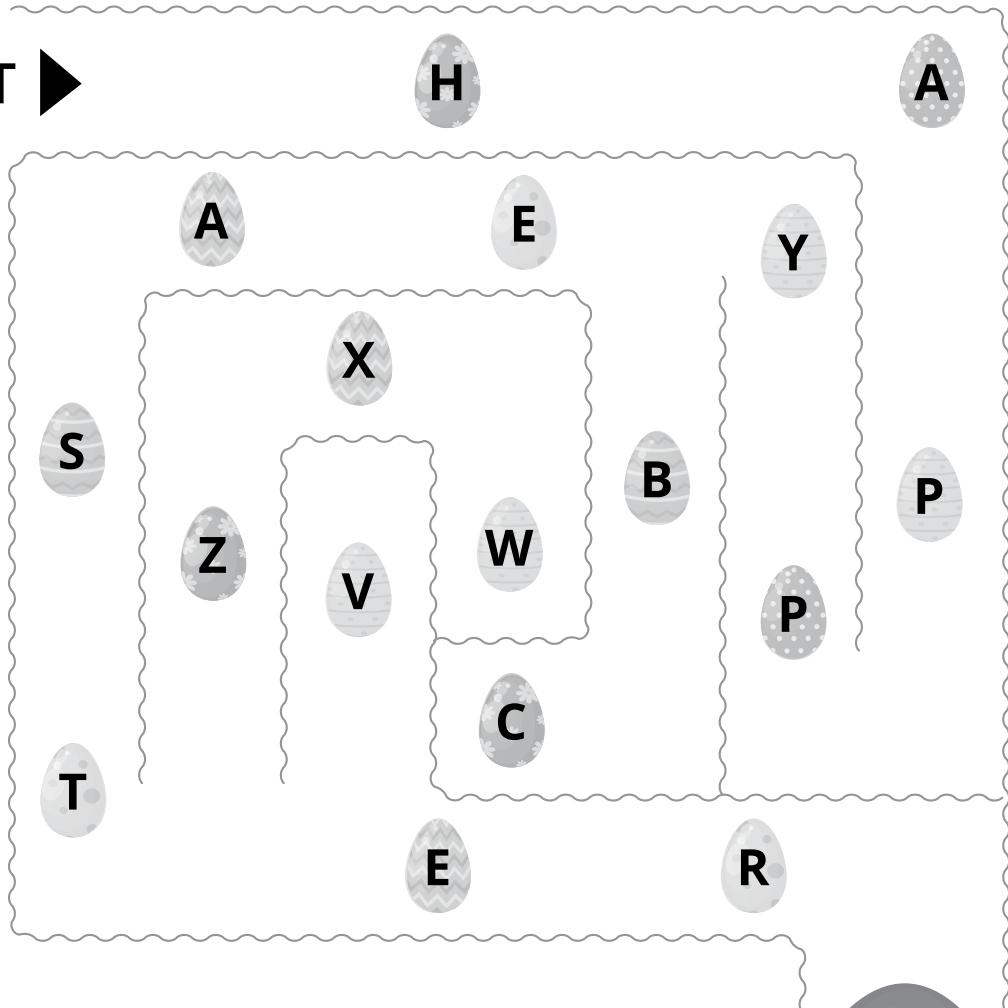

3. The Amaze-ing Egg Hunt

Can you conquer Bug Club Bunny's AMAZING maze?
Find your way through to the giant chocolate egg at the finish line, collecting the small lettered eggs as you go.
When you reach the end, those eggs should spell out a secret message from Bunny. What is it?

6. Recipe: Crunchy Chocolate Easter Nests

How's about a crunchy Easter treat to eat after lunch or dinner? This recipe makes easy, tasty chocolate nests that don't need to go in the oven. Give it a go and share the results with your friends, or with us by using the hashtag #EggcellentEaster on @PearsonPrimary!

About 20 minutes preparation and cooking time

Equipment

- One large heatproof bowl for mixing
- One saucepan
- One wooden spoon
- One baking tray lined with baking parchment

Ingredients

- 60g (2.5 oz) of dark chocolate chunks
- 1 tablespoon of melted butter
- 120g (5 oz) of bran flake cereal
- 1 bag of small chocolate eggs to put in your nest

A note about food intolerances:

This recipe can be made vegan by using dairy-free dark chocolate chunks and dairy-free chocolate eggs, as well as substituting the melted butter for melted coconut oil. By switching the cereal for a gluten-free alternative, this recipe can also be made coeliac-friendly.

What to do

1. Start by washing your hands.
2. Tip a cup's worth of tap water into the saucepan, and heat this until the water is simmering. It is important that you ask for the help of a grown-up to do this.
3. Put the dark chocolate and the melted butter in your mixing bowl, and carefully rest the bowl above the simmering water. The heat of the water will gradually melt the chocolate.
4. When the chocolate and butter mix is fully melted, ask your grown-up to help you take the bowl off the saucepan, and switch off the heat.
5. Stir the cereal into the melted mixture using a wooden spoon. Do your best to make sure every flake has a chocolate coating.
6. Using your spoon, shape the chocolate cereal mixture into 8 nests on the parchment of your baking tray.
7. Gently press the top of each nest with the back of the spoon to make a small dip. This is where your small chocolate eggs can go when the nests are ready.
8. Place your completed nests in the fridge and leave them there to cool for between 45 minutes and one hour.
9. Once your nests feel hard to the touch, take them out of the fridge, and decorate each one with 2-4 of your chocolate eggs...
- 10.... and they're ready. Happy munching!

7. Bug Club Bunny's Word Search

We bet you didn't know that Bug Club Bunny likes to hide words as well as eggs. She has hopped her way through the grid below and left some Easter words for you to find. Can you dig them up using the list below to help you?

Clue: some of Bunny's words are horizontal (along the lines), some of them are vertical (up and down the lines), some of them are diagonal, and some might even be backwards...

8. The Little Chick Challenge

This springtime story needs an end.
Use your imagination and write down what happens next.
Where will you take Little Chick?

The rays of the sun hit Little Chick's egg.

'Oh, it feels so warm out there!' he thinks.

Little Chick stretches his tiny wings, and uses all his strength to try breaking the shell. One... two... THREE. Out he rolls, on to the grass, blinking at the brightness of the sky.

For a moment, Little Chick thinks that he is all alone, and that makes him feel scared. The world outside his egg is so much bigger than he expected. Then he hears a faraway noise. 'Help!' says the noise. 'Please help!'

Little Chick frowns, and scratches his beak. 'Oh dear,' he says. 'What should I do...?'....

Now, plan and write your ending in the space below...
