Can you tell a story with data?

Data can tell a story, and this is your chance to be a storyteller. Use statcrunch.com to produce a compelling, persuasive report and win!

Click here to register and view full contest rules.

Finalists will be chosen based on their ability to Collect (organize and extract data), Crunch (analyze data), and Communicate (tell a compelling and insightful story derived from the data analysis).

HOW TO REGISTER

Step 1: Go to statcrunch.com, and click on the link near the top to register for the "StatCrunch Contest"

Step 2: Read the contest rules

Step 3: Click the link to the registration survey to officially register

Contest opens February 14th, and submissions must be made on or before October 30th.

Up to ten finalists will be asked to create a short video further explaining their results, and winners will be announced following review of those presentations. To enter you must be enrolled in an introductory-level statistics course in the United States between January 1 and December 15, 2020.
