

Meet the needs of your district with a virtual school

It's a new world in K-12 education. More than ever, students and families are seeking flexible learning opportunities that meet their learning styles, interests, and schedules. Virtual learning makes this all possible and helps students pave a personalized path in education that's just right for them.

A ready-to-launch, turnkey program

Our Virtual School in a Box program means that all the start-up work of launching a virtual school is done for you. We provide everything from the curriculum to the platform to the support you need to make it happen affordably, including:

- a powerful learning management system (LMS) capable of serving your entire online student population
- a world-class catalog with more than 500 K-12 courses designed for online learning
- training and professional development to help your teachers teach online
- support for district families as they make the transition to online learning
- day-to-day support for administrators and staff to help run your program

Work with a trusted and experienced partner

Since 2001, we've successfully served more than one million students through our district partnerships and Connections Academy schools. Pearson is a trusted and experienced online learning partner for educators. We can help you build a full-time online school that will fuel your students' academic success.
