Narrator

Collaboration creates powerful learning. Through conversation, we share knowledge, support, and feedback.

But sometimes, making those conversations happen isn't easy—especially for students juggling school with work and family.

The Watson Tutor is embedded directly in students' reading of Pearson Revel products. It chats with students to review key concepts — whenever and wherever they need it.

This virtual tutor learns from the author's content using input from students, instructors, and content specialists.

Using its newfound knowledge, the tutor offers hints and asks or answers questions along the way. What's more, it gets smarter with every interaction.

Female Voice

"I love the Watson Tutor! It gave me the feeling that I was studying with someone, and it helped me retain the information."

Male Voice #1

"The fact that Watson Tutor could tell me whether I was on the right track or not and drop hints to guide me was very helpful."

Male Voice #2

"The Watson Tutor is a great tool to review with before the quizzes."

Narrator

Students can access the Watson Tutor 24/7—perfect for late-night study sessions and busy schedules.

And Watson's insights about individual and class progress help you tailor classroom conversations to your students' needs.

The conversations students need to succeed can be hard to come by. Pearson and IBM have a solution.
