Inclusive Access: the day-to-day reality

Experience your first term with Inclusive Access

The student experience

With the Pearson Inclusive Access model, students get course materials by the first day of class, at a significantly reduced price. It's easier. More convenient. Best of all, students can start learning (and faculty can start teaching) immediately.

Register for your course

• Tuition or fees include course materials — nothing more to do!
• See exact cost of course content & get substantial savings

Come to class with all you need to be fully prepared

• Save time you might have spent shopping around
• Start studying & learning immediately
• Always have anytime/anywhere access to the most current digital content your professor chose

Make your choice: it's up to you

• If you choose not to receive digital content by the add/drop date, you're not charged
• Study anytime & anywhere with your digital content

The faculty experience

Choose course materials just like you do now

• Your students receive materials at a reduced price & get access to the content on or before the first day of class
• Begin instruction knowing all students have required content

Study anywhere & anywhere with your digital content

• More than 30% of students have been delaying purchasing required course content. 1

Know exactly what students are & aren’t doing, so you can adapt

• Assign homework or pre-readings sooner
