

The real goal of learning isn't knowledge, it's change.
When we learn, we create new pathways, new circumstances, new futures for ourselves and for others.
Pearson is the world's leading learning company, but what we really make, the thing we are most proud of, is change.
For over 50 years we've been transforming lives through education.
Helping tens of millions of people all over the world reach their full potential.

And yet we are lifelong learners ourselves.
Forever evolving to meet the moment.
With our history to ground us and our creativity to inspire us, we're reinventing everything we do.
From paper to pixels, from physical to virtual, we're making learning more personal, more equitable, more powerful.
There has never been a better time to learn and we are.
We are the change we believe in.
We are learning.
