

>> I've heard quite a variety of reactions from my peers including just confusion, to fearfulness, or shock and just disbelief, because how fast this is all happening. ^M00:00:12 But the people I sympathize with the most are definitely the graduates and the people graduating this semester, because a lot of graduations are getting cancelled. And a lot of them are just wondering when they'll ever see their friends again. ^M00:00:25 And a lot of universities are also asking people to leave the campus and return to their permanent addresses. I cannot imagine the type of stress this is putting on international students as well. ^M00:00:38 Despite all of this chaos going on, I really am confident that we'll all get through this together.
