Now me personally, the way I like to study is in study groups. And that's going to be very difficult because I'm in a different state now. But I'm still going to try my best to keep that up by using resources and materials such as FaceTime, Zoom calls, all of that stuff where I can still remain productive with my group of friends, even though we're on in remote locations.