

ONLINE AND BLENDED LEARNING

Incredible results

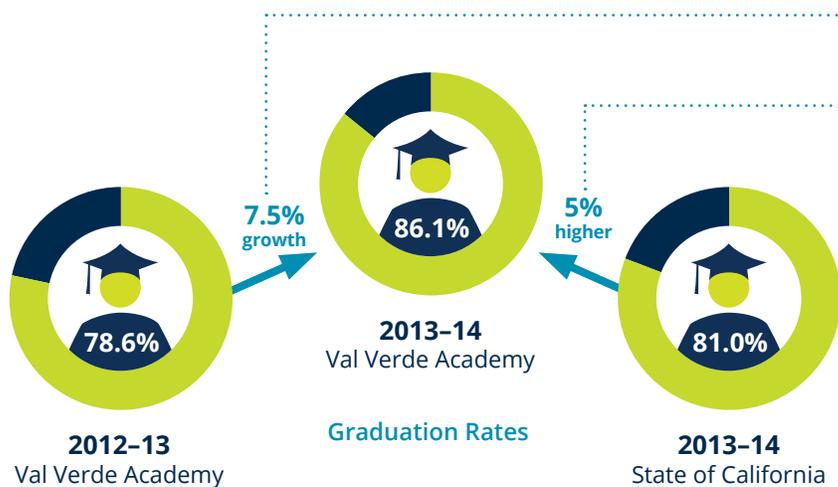

GradPoint® makes it a reality

Results, achievement, and success—they're measured in many different ways. Let's take a closer look at how GradPoint is getting results using innovative online and blended learning models to personalize, engage, and motivate learners to reach their full potential.

1 Improve graduation rates for all learners

VAL VERDE ACADEMY | MORENO VALLEY, CALIFORNIA

Blended learning with GradPoint personalizes education for every student.

Another great advantage of the digital learning solution is that it offers individualized, self-paced instruction in keeping with the school's educational approach. GradPoint “is really about the individual student, and that is the best part of it,” says Sheri Hardin, Assistant School Superintendent.

2 Impact on state tests

AIKEN VIRTUAL PROGRAM | ALEXANDRIA, LOUISIANA

Through blended learning with GradPoint, an individualized high school program meets the needs of its diverse students and increases the percentage of students passing their end-of-course tests.

Hawaii Technology Academy used GradPoint and big goals to deliver big results. Hawaii Technology Academy...

- Increased students' face time with teachers, both to motivate students and to provide personalized support.
- Gradually transitioned to an enriched virtual model of blended learning, which combines face-to-face classes, synchronous virtual instruction, and independent online course work.
- Created a flexible digital curriculum, which would be appropriate for HTA's multiple sites.
- Revised schedules to help teachers build connections with their students.
- Increased student engagement and enabled students to focus more intently on each class.

3 Reaching all learners

OPTIONS HIGH SCHOOL | BELLINGHAM, WASHINGTON

Online learning program helps students recover credits and discover new interests.

In 2013-14
144
students earned credits
with GradPoint

It's more than just credit recovery at Options High School. The district uses a customized GradPoint Math unit as a middle school bridge program and as part of a growing summer school offering.

“When making the switch to GradPoint last year, we opened up most of the GradPoint portfolio of course offerings. Students were then able to fill in any graduation gap no matter what their need.”

Byron Gerard, Principal, Options High School
