

Cook
Possamai-Inesedy

The Sociology of Health & Illness

Critical perspectives for 21st century Australia

Contents

Preface	xii	Step 3: Determine what type of data is needed	35
Reviewers	xiv	Step 4: Determine the method that best collects that type of data	36
Guided tour	xv	Step 5: Determine where you will collect the data	36
About the authors	xvii	Step 6: Determine how you will analyse the data	36
Educator resources	xxii	The methodological framework	38
		Ethnography	39
		Visual arts-based inquiry	39
		Evaluating qualitative research	40
		Analysing qualitative data	41
		Digital research	43
		Conclusion	45
		Questions for review	45
		Recommended resources	46
		Recommended websites	46
		References	46
		CHAPTER 3
		The Australian healthcare system	48
		Fragmentation of the Australian healthcare system	49
		Private and public healthcare	51
		What is the difference between public, private, for-profit and not-for-profit healthcare?	52
		What are the differences between public and private healthcare?	52
		Development of the Australian healthcare system	54
		The current context: A mix of private and public services	57
		The hospitals	58
		Aged care	60
		General practice clinics and diagnostic centres	62
		Conclusion	63
		Questions for review	63
		Recommended resources	63
		Recommended websites	63
		References	64
		PART 1
		Theoretical foundations	1
		CHAPTER 1
		Health and illness as social issues	2
		The sociological approach	3
		Sociological imagination	3
		Social structure and agency	5
		Social construction	7
		Sociological approaches	8
		The biomedical and social model of health	9
		The biomedical model of health	9
		The social model of health	11
		Sociological approaches to health and illness	15
		Consensus theory (structural functionalism)	16
		Conflict theory	18
		Feminism	20
		Poststructuralism	23
		Interactionism	24
		Conclusion	28
		Questions for review	29
		Recommended resources	29
		Recommended websites	29
		References	29
		CHAPTER 2
		Researching health and illness	32
		Reflections on methodology	34
		The connection between the research question and method	35
		Step 1: Identify the research topic	35
		Step 2: Refine the research topic into a research question/s	35

PART 2Healthcare provision

67

CHAPTER 4Choosing healthcare

68

Australia's contemporary healthcare system and the rise of the private sector

68

Situating 'choice' within the contemporary Australian healthcare field

70

Influencing choice

71

News media representations of healthcare

71

The internet and social media

71

The imperative of choice

73

Valuing the idea of choice and its perceived link to quality

75

Knowledge, trust and healthcare choices

76

System knowledge and the unequal capacity to choose

78

*ConclusionQuestions for reviewRecommended resourcesRecommended websitesReferencesCHAPTER 5*The therapeutic encounter

82

What is a therapeutic encounter?

82

How does power shape the therapeutic encounter?

85

Evidence and experience in the therapeutic encounter

87

Social inequalities in the therapeutic encounter

89

Care as relational in the therapeutic encounter

89

Conclusion

91

Questions for review

92

Recommended resources

92

Recommended websites

92

References

93

CHAPTER 6Emotions

95

Conceptualising emotions

96

Emotions in history

97

Emotions in psychology

98

Emotions in sociology

98

Emotions and (mental) health

101

Researching health and emotions

102

Critiquing the 'happiness industry'

103

Emotions in healthcare

104

Patients and carers

104

Nursing and medicine

104

Healthcare hierarchies

105

Interprofessional care

106

Conclusion

106

Questions for review

107

Recommended resources

107

Recommended websites

107

References

107

CHAPTER 7Professions and professional identity

110

What is a profession?

111

Functionalist explanations

113

Trait approaches

114

Interactionism - what professions do

116

Symbolic interactionism

117

Boundary work

118

Power perspectives

120

Medical dominance

121

Conclusion

123

Questions for review

124

Recommended resources

124

Recommended websites

124

References

124

PART 3Technology

127

CHAPTER 8Medicalisation and biomedicalisation

128

Medicalisation

130

Nuances

130

Criticisms of the concept of medicalisation

131

Biomedicalisation

132

What are the differences between medicalisation and biomedicalisation?

132

The five processes of biomedicalisation

134

Criticisms of the concept of biomedicalisation

134

Conclusion

139

Questions for review

140

Recommended resources

140

Recommended websites

140

References

141

CHAPTER 9Digital health*The datafication of health

Characteristics of 'datafied' health

Digital health technology as a promise and solutionDigital health: Reframing patients as 'consumers'*Precision medicine*Biomedical and wellness marketplaces*Health information online: Searching and sharing

Sharing health and illness online

Searching for health information

The next era of the web

Bodies, technology and digital media

Normativity and difference

The ethics of health informationDigital health futures

Hacking for health

*ConclusionQuestions for reviewRecommended resourcesRecommended websitesReferencesCHAPTER 10*Medical tourism*What are health tourism and medical tourism?*The typology of medical tourism*The landscape of medical tourism

The size and scale of medical tourism

The business of medical tourism

Cosmetic surgery tourism

Stem cell tourism and 'hope'

Sociology of medical tourism

Neoliberalism and medical tourism

Healthcare choice and the 'patient-consumer'

Biological citizenship and medical tourism

ConclusionQuestions for reviewRecommended resourcesRecommended websitesReferences

143

144

144

146

147

148

149

150

150

151

152

153

154

155

155

156

157

158

158

158

158

160

161

163

165

165

166

168

168

169

169

170

172

173

174

174

174

175

PART 4Social meanings and experiences of health and illness 177*CHAPTER 11*Indigenous health

178

Sociology and Indigenous health

179

A note on terminology, the authors and research

179

Sociologically imagining Indigenously

181

The global context of Indigenous ill-health

184

The health of First Nations people in Australia

186

Indigenous data sovereignty and ethics

189

Indigenous knowledge is empirical knowledge

192

Conclusion

192

Questions for review

193

Recommended resources

193

Recommended websites

194

References

194

CHAPTER 12Mental health

197

The changing construction of aetiology and emergence of biological psychiatry

197

Sociological approaches to the study of mental health and illness

200

Social interactionism/labelling theories

200

Critical theories

203

Social constructionism

204

Mental health service delivery in Australia

205

Privatisation and integrated care

205

Achieving efficiencies

207

Risk management

208

Consumerism and consumer rights

209

Conclusion

211

Questions for review

211

Recommended resources

211

Recommended websites

211

References

212

CHAPTER 13Ageing*Dimensions of ageing

Social and economic consequences of population ageing

Social consequences

Economic consequences

Social determinants of health

Life course perspective

Strengths and limitations of the life course perspective

The health of older Australians

Measures of health

Physical health, function and disability

Disability among older Australians

Mental and emotional health

Attitudes to ageing

Attitudes and stereotypes

Ageism

Ageism in healthcare

Conclusion

Questions for review

Recommended resources

Recommended websites

References

CHAPTER 14Disability

A note on terminology: 'Persons with disabilities' or 'disabled people'

What is disability: Can it be named?

Theories of disability, impairment and illness

Medicalisation, deviance and ableism

Citizenship and disability inequality

Social model of disability

Psycho-emotional disablism

Why might illness be considered different from disability and impairment?

214	Global understandings of disability:
215	The struggle for personhood	239
	What does personhood change?	240
	Why personhood is necessary	240
217	How does personhood change the definition of disability?	241
217
218	What personhood means for persons with disability	241
219
220	Disability in Australia	242
	Definitions in action: What do these definitions mean for everyday lives?	243
221
222	Conclusion	245
222	Questions for review	245
222	Recommended resources	245
223	Recommended websites	246
223	References	246
224
225
225
226
228
232	CHAPTER 15	247
	Sexuality
233	A sociological history of sexual scripts	248
	The social construction of sexual scripts	250
234	Discourses of sexuality and sex	251
	Navigating stigma and marginalisation	253
236	Heteronormativity, patriarchy and power	255
	Heteronormativity	257
	Sexual health as public health	258
237	The internet: Navigating and negotiating sexuality online	260
238	Conclusion	262
	Questions for review	262
	Recommended resources	262
	Recommended websites	263
	References	263
	GLOSSARY	266
	INDEX	274