

The Arctic

The Arctic is at the north end of the Earth. Much of it is covered in ice and snow that never melts.

Trees cannot grow in the Arctic because it is too cold and windy, but some small plants do grow there. They have long roots that go deep down and help them hold on when it is windy.

moss pinks

Sample pages

