

Octopus Homes

Octopuses live in dens. A den could be a cave, a crack in a rock, or any space just big enough for the octopus to fit in.

Octopuses can squeeze into small spaces because they have no bones in their bodies.

A blue octopus with white and blue spots is shown on a red background. The octopus is positioned in the center-left of the frame, with its tentacles spread out. The background is a vibrant red color with some darker spots. A large, semi-transparent watermark "Sample page" is overlaid diagonally across the center of the image.

An octopus is an invertebrate.

IN – VER – TE – BRATE

An animal that has no backbone is called an invertebrate.