

I Spy Awesome Buildings

Jennifer Dwyer
Illustrated by Scot Ritchie

Pearson

Peggy loves to build things. It all started with blocks she received for her first birthday. As Peggy grew, so did her love of building. Now that Peggy is 7, her creations have become even more exciting.

Peggy shares the love of building with her grandpa. He is an excellent carpenter. He also enjoys talking about buildings he has seen on his trips around the world.

Today, Peggy is meeting her grandpa at his workshop. They will finish up a project that they have been working on.

“Hi, Peggy! I’m glad you’re here,” says Pa. “Look what I’ve just found.”

Pa hands Peggy a photo album.

“You found the photo album!” says Peggy. “I was afraid it had been thrown out.” Peggy sits beside her grandpa and opens the album.

